ARMY OFFICERS WELL PLEASED WITH RESULTS OF MANEUVERS

Echoes of the big war game, which came to an end Friday last, are being heard on all sides, the comment from various military sources being highly favorable. It is conceded that the maneuvers did a world of good for everyone connected with them, and that they taught some valuable lessons in connection with the defense of the island by the mobile army, should the need for such action ever actually arise.

Undoubtedly the maneuvers were planned and worked out so as to supplement the report of the board of officers which convened here July 21 last, to formulate a plan for making Oahu impregnable. While considering the whole broad plan of Oahu's defense, including seacoast and position batteries, this board, it is believed, went very thoroughly into the actual repulsion of a hostile force that might actually gain a foothold on Hawaiian soil, and the way the maneuvers worked out no doubt forms a valuable addendum to the report of the defense board, of which Gen. Macomb was presiding officer, and Lieutenant Colonel Morrison and Major Blakely, the other members.

The umpires who were detailed with the Reds and the Blues during the "invasion" are now busy preparing their reports for the consideration of General Macomb, chief umpire, and the department commander will, in return, probably submit a report to the War Department through division channels.

The senior umpire, on each side, Major Penn with the Reds and Major Blakely with the Blues, are receiving data from the umpires under them, and are compiling their reports in this manner.

No decision as to which side won has been, or will be rendered, it being the object of maneuvers of this sort to work out specific problems rather than to try and determine any one big question. As a matter of fact, theory entered to such a large extent into the situations that it would have been almost impossible for the umpires to make any hard and fast ruling covering the week's operations. The Blues did certain things that they were expected to do, and failed in others, and the same can be said of the invaders.

All the Schofield Barracks troops returned to the post Saturday about noon, without incident or accident, while the Fort Shafter battalion and the marines also made their somewhat way in good season.

The next event on the military calendar will be the first artillery firing for the inspector general, Major McManus. This will take place at Schofield some time this week.

All the umpires who came over from the mainland to take part in the maneuvers, with the exception of Major Penn, who is assigned to the First Infantry, will return on the next transport. Major McManus will also return to division headquarters at that time.

WALTER G. SMITH MEETS CANADA'S TARIFF LAWS

Walter G. Smith, Hawaii's publicity agent on the mainland, is having his troubles just now with the tariff laws of Canada, and although he has been in British Columbia two or three weeks now he cannot find out whether he is to be permitted to make his lecture tour through the Dominion, because he cannot get possession of his baggage.

Following his first encounter with the customs officials it appears the Smith took advantage of his troubles to make publicity for Hawaii, proceeding to give out a long interview to a newspaper reporter. Too late he discovered he had talked to the representative of a Liberal press, which is fighting the present government officials, and his protest, published in that organ, angered the customs officials so much that the last word received here was Walter G. indicates he doesn't know whether he is to be permitted to proceed on his tour. At any rate, he had not yet obtained his baggage, and was forced to buy new shirts, collars and handkerchiefs as he happened to require fresh laundry.

JAPANESE HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS GIVE A SHOW

Pupils of the Japanese girls' high school gave a fair and entertainment at the institution last night, which was artistic and quaint. Artificial flowers, needlework and other products of the handiwork of the Nipponese maidens were inspected with great satisfaction by the grownups of that nationality, the women in national costume and the men for the most part in the society toga of the Occident.

Songs and sketches of old Japan were a feature of the literary and musical exercises. Attired in an ancient costume, a woman gave forth weird music with an instrument of the age represented. Wise sayings and comical jests on the days of the Samurai were interspersed with the exhibition.

"HIAWATHA" WILL BE GIVEN BY GIRLS TONIGHT

Owing to rain, the Kamehameha girls had to postpone their play "Hiawatha" until tonight. The girls were all in readiness for the play on Saturday night and were greatly disappointed when they found they would have to postpone it. The play is to be given on the campus at the Kamehameha Girls' School. It was given by the students last year with great success and is expected to be as good if not better this year. A great deal of time has been spent in its preparation and the girls are anxious to produce it as soon as possible.

If the weather permits the play will be given tonight. Quite an audience is expected from the girls and from outsiders. It will be well worth one's while to see it.

TO PROTECT CORN FROM INSECT PESTS

A bulletin has been issued by the Federal experiment station on methods of protecting corn from pests, with special reference to the cutworm. It is suggested that the fields be protected from the time of seeding with a steep furrow, creating a perpendicular wall of about twelve inches facing away from the field. The use of poisoned bait is also recommended and light traps for male moths.

The natural enemies of the cutworm among the birds are the mynah, the golden plover and the Chinese pheasant, which should receive every possible encouragement from the agriculturist. Other insects attacking corn of which Mr. Wilcox writes are wireworms, army worms, plant lice, leafhoppers, detritating caterpillars, earworms and grain feeders.

Dr. Wilcox, special agent in charge, says that the large increase in areas planted to corn on the various ranches has called attention to the insect pests of this crop and the means of controlling them.

TELEPHONE COMPANY TO GIVE OUT FIRE ALARMS

When you want to know the location of a fire, call central.

The general public is usually anxious to know the destination of the fire engines as they go racing down the street, and as a result the reserves at the fire station are repeatedly called to the telephone to answer inquiries as to the location of the fire at a time when they are making ready for a second alarm, and when the line should be kept clear for further orders from Chief Thurston.

To overcome this difficulty, Manager Hummel of the Mutual Telephone Company has consented to have all queries as to where the fire is, answered from the central telephone station. Under this new arrangement the fire department will immediately inform the telephone company as to the location of the fire and the telephone operators will then supply the information to any one who wishes it.

ADVOCATES DYNAMITE TO BREAK UP SOIL

In a bulletin of the Hawaii experiment station, Dr. E. V. Wilcox, special agent in charge, recommends breaking up hard subsoil with dynamite. The station has been experimenting with this method for years. By exploding dynamite properly planted the hardpan is cracked to a depth of four feet, the cracks extending in a radius of five feet.

Good results have followed the use of surface drains to carry off the water from rains, which otherwise would tend to increase the packed condition of the soil. Ordinary drain tiles, having to be imported, cost too much for use on an extensive scale.

Dr. Wilcox recommends dynamite for the planting of papayas, avocados, mangoes, bananas and other orchard fruits, also for the removal of small swamps.
